How Can You Win Using ApplianceWare Technology?

ApplianceWare makes the software that powers a new generation of server appliances for small office and workgroups, or for deployment by service providers. Powerful Linux-based architecture allows customers to deliver intelligent networked devices to end-users by simplifying deployment of applications and lowering management and ownership costs. The software is sold exclusively to device manufacturers that will incorporate them into a new generation of server appliances due later this year.

- Easily-configured, remotely-managed secure devices
- Built on America's most advanced server appliance modular hardware from AMI
- Great margin opportunity for system integrators and resellers
